Transcriber Notes

Obvious typos and punctuation errors corrected. Inconsistencies in spelling and hyphenation left as in original.

In the original Table of Contents, the Humorous and Birthday Verses chapters were listed with the correct page number, but out of order. They have been put in the correct order.

The book advertisement at the end uses a right pointing hand character. If the device font does not support this character, , it may not appear correctly.

Use of small capitals at the beginning of verses made consistent.

THE # ALBUM WRITER'S FRIEND.

COMPRISING MORE THAN

THREE HUNDRED CHOICE SELECTIONS OF POETRY AND PROSE.

SUITABLE FOR WRITING IN AUTOGRAPH ALBUMS, VALENTINES, BIRTHDAY, CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR CARDS.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

Our lives are albums, written through
With good or ill, with false or true,
And as the blessed angels turn the pages of our years,
God grant that they may read the good with smiles,
And blot the ill with tears.

COMPILED BY J. S. OGILVIE.

NEW YORK: J. S. OGILVIE AND COMPANY, 25 Rose Street. COPYRIGHT 1881. By J. S. OGILVIE.

PREFACE.

Who among the readers of this preface has not been invited to write a few words of sentiment in the Album of a friend? As an aid to the many thousands who have received this invitation, and have not known what to write, we offer this collection of choice verse and prose, as an aid to them and all others, with the hope that our labor shall not have been spent in vain, nor be altogether unappreciated. Great care has been taken to procure as many original pieces as possible. Many choice verses suitable for Birthday, Christmas and New-Year celebrations, have been added; which, with the collection of articles embracing sentiment, affection, humor, and miscellany, is offered to a generous public by

THE COMPILER.

Go forth, thou little volume, Like Noah's faithful dove, And bring to darling ----An olive leaf of love.

My Album's open! Come and see! What! Won't you waste a line on me? Write but a thought, a word or two, That Memory may revert to you.

To My Friends:—

My Album is a garden spot
Where all my friends may sow,
Where thorns and thistles flourish not,
But flowers alone may grow.
With smiles for sunshine, tears for showers,
I'll water, watch and guard these flowers.

Go forth, thou little volume,
I leave thee to thy fate;
To love and friendship truly
Thy leaves I dedicate.

Go, Album! range the gay parterre;
From gem to gem, from flower to flower,
Select with taste and cull with care,
And bring your offering, fresh and rare,
To this sweet maiden's bower!

When years elapse, It may, perhaps,

Delight us to review these scraps, And live again 'mid scenes so gay, That Time's rough hand has swept away; For when the eye, bedimmed with age, Shall rest upon each treasured page,

Those pleasant hours
That once were ours

Shall come again, like Autumn flowers, To bloom and smile upon us here When all things else seem sad and drear; 'Twill tune our hearts and make them sing, And turn our Autumn into Spring!

Go, little book, thy destined course pursue, Collect memorials of the just and true, And beg of every friend so near Some token of remembrance dear.

> As life flows on from day to day, And this, your book, soon fills, How many may be far away From treasured vales and hills?

But there is joy in future time
To turn the pages o'er,
And see within a name or rhyme
From one you'll see no more.

Life is a volume,
From youth to old age,
Each year forms a chapter,
Each day is a page.
May none be more charming,
More womanly (manly) true,
Than that, pure and noble,
Sketched yearly by you.

Many kind wishes will be written here,
And none more sincere than mine.
But---Words are lighter than the cloud-foam
Of the restless ocean's spray;
Vainer than the trembling shadow
That the next hour steals away.
By the fall of summer raindrops
Is the air as deeply stirred,
And the roseleaf that we tread on
Will outlive a word.

8

WE may write our names in Albums; We may trace them in the sand; We may chisel them in marble, With a firm and skillful hand; But the pages soon are sullied, Soon each name will fade away; Every monument will crumble, Like all earthy hopes, decay. But, dear friend, there is an Album, Full of leaves of snowy white, Where no name is ever tarnished, But forever pure and bright. In that Book of Life, God's Album, May your name be penned with care And may all who here may write, Have their names forever there.

SENTIMENT and AFFECTION.

Peace be around thee, wherever thou rovest;
May life be for thee one summer's day;
And all that thou wish, and all that thou lovest,
Come smiling around thy summer way.
If sorrow e'er this calm should break,
May even thy tears pass off so lightly,
Like spring showers, they will only make
The smiles that follow shine more brightly.

May the chain of friendship formed by the links which are dropped here, serve to unite you more closely in spirit with the friends who have worked it.

May each link be brought to a white heat in the fires of Love; and, forged on the anvils of Truth, may they be strong as iron, yet light as air: keeping you bravely to the duties of Life. And when the chain of human bondage shall be broken, may they become flowers of eternal brightness in the gardens from whence cometh exceeding peace.

Our lives are albums, written through
With good or ill—with false or true—
And, as the blessed angels turn
The pages of our years,
God grant they read the good with smiles,
And blot the bad with tears.

THE gem cannot be polished without friction, nor man perfected without adversity.

Time advances like the slowest tide, but retreats like the swiftest current.

What's the use of always fretting At the trials we shall find Ever strewn along our pathway— Travel on, and never mind.

Life giveth unto each his space,
A span of earth, an arch of sky,
And unto each a several grace—
To each a separate destiny.
And some were born to win and spend,
And some to love unto the end.

There is another album
Filled with leaves of spotless white,
Where no name is ever tarnished,
But forever pure and bright.
In the Book of Life—God's album—
May your name be penned with care,
And may all who here have written,
Write their names forever there.

Daily we write our autographs on the minds and hearts of those around us.

"Poor is the friendless master of a world. A world in purchase for a friend, is gain."

So slight a favor 'tis you crave, That I can scarce refuse compliance; Nor shall I use the page you gave, To set your champions at defiance.

Dear lady, vainly awed, I praise
That dimpled hand I pressed at parting;
Or those dark eyes, beneath whose gaze
A cupid lurks equipped for darting.

Nor can I hope to lightly touch
On charms so oft the theme of lovers;
To add another, while so much
That beautiful about thee hovers.

I can but add one little pearl
To all the gems about thee scattered;
And say again, sweet, artless girl,
That all thy poets have not flattered.

I have tried for a week, and vainly I seek
Words of wisdom to write to you here;
So, wishing you life free from sorrow and strife,
Nor wanting in friends and good cheer,
With health—perhaps wealth—
Love better than self,
And Truth, far the best, to the end;
Since content it maintains
While existence remains,
I subscribe myself, Truly, your friend.

Strength for to-day, in house and home, To practice forbearance sweetly; To scatter kind words and loving deeds, Still trusting in God completely.

A VOLUME of this kind, it is supposable, will be more or less frequently referred to, in future years, to revive fading recollections and recall pleasant associations; and, therefore, though it is so easy to moralize, it seems eminently fitting that helpful suggestions should accompany familiar autographs.

Let me say, then, that while in your youth a favorable combination of circumstances permits so much of happiness, the conditions of its enjoyment cannot always remain as now.

As the responsibilities, at present borne for you, shall come to rest on your own shoulders, and the darker shades of life's history are unfolded, you will find the peace, which floweth like a river, only in the degree in which you resolutely perform every known duty; and, forgetting your own wants—whether fancied or real—devote your thoughts, as well as your energies, to making the society in which you move, happier for your being.

That you may indulge in no selfish ease; but bestow, as well as enjoy, a full share of the pleasures of time, and afterward receive a crown of glory, is the earnest wish of your friend—

I would that I could express my mind To you, dear friend, in scribbling some rhyme; But you know my failing as well as I, And you'd better get another to try.

That one who can work right on, quietly waiting for recognition, if it come: if not, yet right on, is the true nobleman.

12

Dost thou know, love, that thy smile Makes the whole world bright for me?
Just as sunrise pours a sudden
Purple glory on the sea.
Ah! had I that power, ever
Should the world look bright to thee.

I know not what to write about, So many themes are pressing; All good enough in very truth, But quite unprepossessing: Each moment of thy future life, Live holy, whether maid or wife.

And let it be thy constant care,
Midst earthly joy and sorrow,
By watchfulness and fervent prayer,
Each this day and to-morrow,
To be prepared when Christ shall come,
His heaven to make thy final home.

OH, those eyes! so calm, serene—
Sweetest eyes were ever seen.
Will the woes of coming years
Ever shadow them with tears?
Shall my life the sunshine own,
That last night upon me shone,
When, beneath the summer skies,
Beamed on me those brown, brown eyes?

THESE little souvenirs possess not their greatest value when first written; but as time, with scythe in hand, passes along, and we are left standing, we are not the same, but these lines remain. Some, to cheer the saddened by awakening slumbering memories of better things; and others serving as guide-boards on the road to eternity.

And thou, too, whosoe'er thou art, That readest this brief psalm, As one by one thy hopes depart, Be resolute and calm.

O fear not in a world like this,
And thou shalt know e're long—
Know how sublime a thing it is
To suffer and be strong.

Press on! our life is not a dream
Though often such its mazes seem.
We were not born to live at ease—
Ourselves alone to aid and please
To each a daily task is given;
A labor that shall fit for heaven,
When duty calls, let love grow warm,
Amid the sunshine or the storm;
With faith, life's trials boldly breast
Then come a conqueror to thy rest.

As you travel through life, scatter kind words and gentle deeds; in so doing, you will enrich your soul. Withhold them, and it tends to poverty.

May your life be like the day—more beautiful in the evening; like the summer—aglow with promise; and, like the autumn, rich with the golden sheaves, where good works and deeds have ripened on the field.

Let the road be rough and dreary, And its end far out of sight; Foot it bravely—strong or weary;— Trust in God, and do the right.

Life is but a day, at best,
Sprung from night, in darkness lost;
Hope not sunshine every hour;
Fear not—clouds will always lower.

ALL the paths of faith, tho' severed wide, O'er which the feet of prayerful reverence pass Meet at the gate of Paradise at last.

> If I wake, or if I sleep, Still the memory I keep Of the tender light that lies In the depths of those brown eyes.

BE blessings scattered o'er thy way, My gladsome, joyous, laughing sprite; Be thy whole life one summer's day Without the night.

On this leaf, in memory prest, May my name forever rest.

On this page I'll write, simply to indite My name as your friend.

May thy life happy be, Is my dear wish for thee.

It never pays to fret and growl
When fortune seems our foe,
The better bred will push ahead
And strike the braver blow;
For luck is work,
And those who shirk
Should not lament their doom,
But yield the play,
And clear the way,
That better men have room.

Desire not to live long, but well; How long we live, not years, but actions, tell.

> MEANNESS shun, and all its train; Goodness seek, and life is gain.

A BEAUTIFUL life ends not in death.

ROUND went the autograph; hither it came, For me to write in; so here's my name.

Passing through life's field of action, Lest we part before its end, Take within your modest volume, This memento from a friend.

We meet and part—the world is wide; We journey onward side by side A little while, and then again Our paths diverge. A little pain—A silent yearning of the heart For what has grown of life a part; A shadow passing o'er the sun, Then gone, and light again has come. We meet and part, and then forget; And life holds blessings for us yet.

When things don't go to suit you,
And the world seems upside down,
Don't waste your time in fretting,
But drive away the frown.

Old friends and true friends!
Don't talk to me of new friends;
The old are the best,
Who stand the test,
Who book their name as through friends.

May your coffee and slanders against you be ever the same—without grounds.

The world is full of fools.

And he who would none view,
Must shut himself in a cave,
And break his mirror, too.

METHINKS long years have flown,
And, sitting in her old arm-chair,
---- has older grown.
With silver sprinkled in her hair,
Her album thus she holds,
And turns its many pages o'er,
And wonders if it still contains
The memories of yore.
As o'er these pages thus she runs,
With many a sigh and kiss,
Then suddenly she stops and says,
"Who could have written this?"

It never pays to wreck the health
In drudging after gain;
And he is sold who thinks that gold
The cheapest bought with pain.
An humble lot,
A cosey cot,
Have tempted even kings;
For station high,
That wealth will buy,
Not oft contentment brings.

Rемемвек me, is all I ask And, if remembrance be a task, Forget me.

----, life is all before you,
Stretched out in its misty sheen
And the future, though now hidden
Holds much joy for thee, I ween.
Why, then, seek to know what's coming?
It is forming day by day
But your heart, in blind out-reaching,
Makes to-morrow of to-day.

"Life is real—life is earnest;"
And the heroine in the strife
Is the one who leaves the future—
Living but the present life;—
Lives it truly, nobly, grandly;
Thus prepares for coming fate;
Strives to make her living perfect;—
Learns to labor and to wait.

The violet is for faithfulness,
Which in me shall abide:
Hoping, likewise, from your heart
You will not let it slide.

This is thine album. May it be A source of happiness to thee. And may each page that's written o'er, Be better than the one before.

20

'Tis a terrible fate, my dear miss,
To be asked to write in a book like this;
For, scratch my head as hard as I may—
I've such a skull—

And if I try to moralize,
Or vent my thoughts in sentiment,
Or attempt to laud you to the skies,
Or spread myself on compliment,
I'm so awful dull,

That my efforts would prove futility;
For the sex of your kind, are of that turn of mind,
That morals, verse and flattery,
Have to you been so oft defined,
You are full.

If rhyming I try, adorable Miss,
The first I think of, is dear little Kiss,
Or some such nonsense as connubial bliss,
Or changing your title "Mrs." from "Miss;"
But that's prosaical.

To give you advice, I'd never presume;—
Incompetence may be the reason for that;—
To wish you long life and a blest happy home
Is aged and stale, exhausted and flat,
And excruciatingly formal.

Now, what to do I do not know, Or how to make my paragraph; So I'll doff my hat, and make my bow And send this as my autograph.

May there be just clouds enough o'er your life to cause a glorious sunset.

That every kindly wish and thought,
By friends expressed within these pages,
Be yours, and trials common to us all
May cross your path by "easy stages."

REMEMBER me when far away, And only half awake; Remember me on your wedding-day, And send a slice of cake.

When worth and beauty prompt the line,
Perhaps a pen as poor as mine
May be forgiven
To try and write of things divine,
And think of heaven!
But pause, rash verse! and don't abuse
A bashful maiden's ear with news
Of her own beauty!
And yet no other theme I'll choose,
Or think a duty!
So, then, for fear I might offend,

The earth can boast no purer tie, No brighter, richer gem, No jewel of a lovelier dye, Than Friendship's diadem.

I'll say, God bless her!—and thus end.

Then may this ray of light divine Ne'er from our bosoms fade; But may it on our pathway shine, Till death our hearts invade.

---- is your name,
Single is your station;
Happy be the little man
That makes the alteration.

OH! love is such a strange affair; So strange to all.

It cometh from above And lighteth like a dove

On some.

But some it never hits Unless it gives them fits.

Oh, hum.

Thy cheerful, gentle ways, I do admire: Thy future, to be happy, I greatly desire; Thy trusting confidence, may I require; Thy firm friend to be, will I aspire.

As a slight token of esteem,
Accept these lines from me;
So plain and simple, they do seem
Unworthy such as thee.
But soon these traced lines will fade
And disappear—'tis their doom.
May you, unlike them, be arrayed
In a perpetual bloom.

In memory's wreath may one bud be entwined for me.

WE are all placed here to do something. It is for us, and not for others, to find out what that something is, and then, with all the energy of which we are capable, honestly and prayerfully to be about our business.

OH! think of me some day When I am far away; I'll pray thy days be long And joyous as the song Of sweet birds singing near, Thy heart with love to cheer.

May joy thy spirit fill, All care and sorrow cease; Remember 'tis His will Who hath spoken, "Peace!"

In fair and sunny beauty, or gray 'neath evening skies, The purple hills from misty vales, upward to heaven rise:

Their rugged side we scarce can see o'er-decked with fern and heather,

That rings its scented violet bells through fair and stormy weather;

So may thy life be clothed with flowers, and breathe a purer air,

Fresh from the "everlasting hills," knowing no grief or care,—

And if the sunny sky must pale, as pales the setting sun, May it only show the stars are near, peeping out, one by one!

These few lines to you are tendered, By a friend sincere and true; Hoping but to be remembered When I'm far away from you. 23

WORK, while yet the daylight shines, With a loving heart and true, For golden years are fleeting by, And we are passing, too.

Wait not for to-morrow's sun
To beam upon thy way,
For all that thou can'st call thine own,
Is in this one to-day.

Then learn to make the most of life—
Make glad each passing day—
For time will never bring thee back
The chances swept away.

Leave no tender word unsaid—
Do good while life shall last;—
You know the mill can never grind
With the water that is past.

Let not the hours we've spent together, Go past as nothing, by; Forget me not, e'en though you must Remember with a sigh.

Thanksgiving-day again is here, And turkey is the leading question; I wish, with heartiness sincere, That you may have a good digestion.

Though many flowers have faded from my life,
And clouds obscure the brightness of its sky;
This have I learned: we can do much to make
Our lives a blessing and our words a power,
If what we find to do, for Christ's dear sake,
We do with faithfulness, from hour to hour.

It may occur in after life
That you, I trust, a happy wife,
Will former happy hours retrace,
Recall each well-remembered face.
At such a moment I but ask—
I hope 'twill be a pleasant task—
That you'll remember as a friend
One who'll prove true e'en to the end.

I saw two clouds at morning,
Tinged by the morning sun,
And in the dawn they floated on
And mingled into one;
I thought that morning cloud was blest,
It moved so sweetly to the west.
Such be your gentle motion,
Till life's last pulse shall beat,
And you float on in joy to meet
A calmer sea, where storms shall cease—
A purer sky, where all is peace.

When on this page you chance to look, Just think of me and close the book.

BE a good girl, and you will be a true woman.

May thy darkest hours in life be well lighted with the sunshine of contentment.

Yours sincerely—although merely—

When the golden sun is setting,
And your heart from care is free,
When o'er a thousand things you're thinking,
Will you sometimes think of me?

How long we live, not years, but actions tell; That man lives twice who lives the first life well. Make then, while yet ye may, your God your friend. Whom Christians worship, yet not comprehend. The trust that's given, guard; and to yourself be just; For, live we how we can, yet die we must.

LIVE well; how long or short, permit to Heaven; They who forgive most, shall be most forgiven.

SOAR not too high to fall, but stoop to rise; We masters grow of all that we despise.

Your fate is but the common fate of all; Unmingled joys here to no man befall.

May e'en thy failings lean to virtue's side.

Hours are golden links—God's token—Reaching heaven, but one by one; Take them, lest the chain be broken Ere thy pilgrimage be done.

House beautiful—your book, from end to end, And every page a room to lodge a friend; Fain would I enter with a seemly grace, Attired and mannered as befits the place; But best endeavor falls below the aim And rests at last, content to leave a name.

THE brave man is not he who feels no fear, For that were stupid and irrational; But, he whose noble soul its fear subdues. And bravely dares the danger nature shrinks from.

FLING wide the portals of your heart!
Make it a temple set apart
From earthly use, for Heaven's employ—
Adorned with prayer and love and joy;
So shall your Sovereign enter in
And new and noble life begin.

WE could count time by heart-throbs; he most lives who thinks most, speaks the noblest, acts the best.

WE ourselves shape the joys and fears Of which the life to come is made, And fill our future atmosphere With sunshine or with shade.

When the name that I write here is dim on the page, And the leaves of your album are yellow with age, Still think of me kindly, and do not forget That, wherever I am, I remember you yet.

The massive gates of circumstance Are turned upon the slightest hinge, And thus some seeming pettiest chance, Oft gives to life its after tinge.

OH, for a home in Zululand, or Arctic regions cold, A peasant's cot or hermit's hut, midst solitude untold, With Kaffirs or with Hottentots, in Egypt or Leone—'Twere bliss to live in any spot where albums are unknown.

In times of prosperity our friends are many, But the time of adversity tries and proves them.

Gems of price are deeply hidden,
'Neath the rugged rocks concealed;
What would ne'er come forth unbidden,
To thy search may be revealed.

While the fading flowers of pleasure, Spring spontaneous from the soil, Thou wilt find the harvest's treasure Yields alone to patient toil.

IF recollections of friends brighten moments or sadness, What a fund of delight is here treasured for thee! If advice and kind wishes bring goodness and gladness, How perfect and happy thy future must be.

The tissues of the Life to be—
We weave with colors all our own,
And in the field of Destiny,
We reap as we have sown.

THERE is seldom a line of glory written upon earth's face, but a line of suffering runs parallel with it; and they that read the lustrous syllables of the one, and stoop not to decipher the spotted and worn inscription of the other, get the least half of the lesson that earth has to give.

LEAF green on ground of white, My name, I fain would write That you remember still In June or in December chill, We two are friends.

OH, wayward mortal who these books invented, Why was't thou not by some kind hand prevented? And thereby kept from many a luckless swain, The direful knowledge that he lacked a brain—Lacked it, at least, where poetry was needed, Like the poor wight who here has not succeeded.

Through days of doubt and darkness, In fear and trembling breath, Through mists of sin and sorrow, In tears and grief and death;

Through days of light and gladness,
Through days of love and life,
Through smiles and joy and sunshine,
Through days with beauty rife;

The Lord of life and glory,
The King of earth and sea,
The Lord who guarded Israel;
Keep watch, sweet friend, o'er thee.

TRUTH—Freedom—Virtue—these have power; If rightly cherished, to uphold, sustain, And bless thy spirit, in its darkest hour.

Thy own trim, modest form, Is always neatly clad, Thou surely will make the tidiest wife That ever husband had.

Among the many friends who claim A kind remembrance in thy heart, I too, would add my simple name, Among the rest.

May God's mercy ever guide thee, Safe o'er all thy thorny road; And His grace what'er betide thee, Lead thee home to His abode.

THE large are not the sweetest flowers; The long are not the happiest hours; Much talk doth not much friendship tell; Few words are best—I wish you well.

LET your life be like a snowflake, which leaves a mark, but not a stain.

BEGIRT with roses of the royal June,
A resurrected day swings highest morn
In every year; and so through life I pray
Nay never failing changes, bring their day,
And flames of love in swinging censers rise
While all thy thoughts leads on toward the skies.

SMALL service is true service while it last;
Of friends, however humble, scorn not one:
The daisy, by the shadow that it cast,
Protects the lingering dew-drop from the sun.

Make good use of time, if thou lovest eternity; yesterday cannot be recalled—to-morrow cannot be secured—to-day only is thine, which, if once lost, is lost forever.

In time we transact business for eternity; whatever, therefore, we do now, should be done well.

May each thought be pure, and sincere, Addressed upon these spotless pages; Reflections fond, they'll always prove, Youthful friend, through many ages.

THEY who have light in themselves, will not revolve as satellites.

Through time we'll change, and then,
This little book will somewhat bind us;
You'll take it up, and think of me
And all the joys we've left behind us.

As the shadow of the sun is largest when his beams are lowest, so we are always least when we make ourselves the greatest.

Across the page of spotless white Friends trail the pen, and in our sight Grow precious all the lines they write.

As for some white-sailed ship at sea, So, little book, my watch for thee; Return with freight of love to me. 32

Every hour comes to us charged with duty, and the moment it is past, returns to Heaven to register itself how spent.

THERE'S a Divinity that shapes our ends, Rough-hew them how we will.

Our eyes see all around in gloom or glow, Hues of their own, fresh borrowed from the heart.

Write your name by kindness, love and mercy upon the hearts of those you come in contact with, and you will never be forgotten.

Let Fate do her worst; there are relics of joy, Bright dreams of the past, she cannot destroy; They come in the night-time of sorrow and care, And bring back the features that joy used to wear. Like the vase, in which roses have once been distilled, You may break—you may shatter the vase, if you will; But the scent of the roses will hang round it still.

If you wish success in life, make perseverance your bosom friend, experience your wise counsel, caution your elder brother, and hope your guardian genius.

Count that day lost whose low descending sun Views from thy hand no worthy action done.

'Tis but a trifle that you ask,
But this you will admit,
That trifles, more than greater tasks,
Will sometimes strain our wit.
I wish thee health, and wealth, and joy,
As others have before:
And were I in poetic mood,
I'd surely wish thee more.

Our greatest glory consists not in never falling, but in rising every time we fall.

Here's a sigh for those who love me, And a smile for those who hate, And whatever sky's above me, Here's a heart for every fate.

In all thy humors, whether grave or mellow, Thou art such a touchy, testy, pleasant fellow; Hast so much wit, and mirth, and spleen, about thee, There is no living with thee, nor without thee.

May you live in bliss, from sorrow away, Having plenty laid up for a rainy day; And when you are ready to settle in life, May you find a good husband and make a good wife.

I write here a name which I hope shall be known To all of the ages which follow my own. 'How conceited!' you say; but my lines shall remain; 'Tis my hope, you'll discover, not I, that is vain.

Our lives are albums; each new day's a page
As spotless as the leaf on which I write.
Whene'er those books of ours shall be read,
May few unwise inscriptions meet the sight.

On the broad highway of action Friends of worth are far and few; But when one has proved her friendship, Cling to her who clings to you.

Were mine the power I'd twine for thee A crown of jewels rare;
Each gem should be a kingdom,
Each pearl an humble prayer.

There are few friends in this wide world That love is fond and true;
But ---- when you count them o'er Place me among the few.

There is a small and simple flower
That twines around the humblest cot,
And in the sad and lonely hours
It whispers low: "Forget me not."

35

When asked in an album to write, I feel quite inclined to refuse; For what should I dare to indite That would a young lady amuse? Not wit, for I have none of that, Nor romance—my fancy is tame; And compliments sound so flat, I'm forced to write merely my name.

> May you always be happy, And live at your ease; Get a kind husband, And do as you please.

True friends, like ivy and the wall, Both stand together or together fall.

Beauty is but a vain, a fleeting good, A shining gloss that fadeth suddenly, A flower that dies when almost in the bud, A bright glass that breaketh suddenly; A fleeting good, a glass, a gloss, a flower, Lost, faded, broken, dead within the hour.

> May happiness ever be thy lot, Wherever thou shalt be; And joy and pleasure light the spot That may be home to thee.

How sweet to have a faithful friend, In whom we can confide: To bless us if we act aright, And if we err to chide.

HOPE the best, get ready for the worst, and take what God sends.

BE content with the lot God has marked out for you. Love, honor and obey Him in all things, and your last days will be peaceful and happy.

May the morn of thy life be bright and joyous, the noontide peaceful and happy, and the sunset gloriously hopeful, is the wish of your friend.

Life, Death and Immortality—these three—the first, the Road—the second, the Gate. May you walk safely the first, pass triumphantly the second, and rest forever in the third.

May the Angels twine for thee A wreath of immortality.

YES, ----, I will write my name
In here, as you request;
And, if to you its all the same,
I'll add a line—though rather tame—
For Critics eyes, as my bequest.

My wishes and my hopes for you, Find glad expression here; Although, indeed, it's very true, There is no room for all that's due To one we hold so dear.

Good health—first wish of all— Of all God's gifts the best; A happy heart, that loves to call On Him who notes the sparrow's fall And promises sweet rest.

Although beset by worldly care,
Fix all your hopes on Heaven,
And view by faith the glories fair,
Which, in that world beyond the air,
To faithful ones are given.

Although I am advised not to write fast, I hope the thought I would express may last.

You ask for your Album a rhyme; With pleasure I hear and obey; Refusal were folly or crime— For who could to ---- say "nay?"

May Heaven on you its choicest blessings shower—Is the sincere wish of your friend.

BE kind to all; be intimate with few; And may the few be well chosen.

EVILS in the journey of life are like the hills which alarm travelers upon their road; they both appear great in the distance, but when we approach them, we find them far less insurmountable than we had conceived.

38

Miss ----! O Miss ----!
What can I write that's new
Among so very many
Pretty compliments to you?
In poetry, I fear I'd fail—
I'm very sure I'd stammer—
You cannot drive the ponderous nail
With a small ten-cent tack hammer.
Since, then, so high I cannot soar,
Nor chirp notes like the lark,
Please cancel what I've said before,
I'll simply make my mark.

It has been beautifully said: The water that flows from a spring does not congeal in winter; and those sentiments which flow from the heart cannot be chilled by adversity.

Roses, without thorns, for thee.

I'll just write a few words here; so that when You turn these and life's pages o'er again, Your memory back to the time will go, When you and I were "O" and "Jo."[1]

How we worked together in '79, Wafting lightning over the W. U. Line To W. M.—called "our quod," you know—When you and I were "O" and "Jo."

How Lu talked by the hour to us, (And we stood it like martyr's making no fuss), How we used to get "snatched"—we hated that so—When you and I signed "O" and "Jo."

I'll not wish you all sunshine; for life is made Up of installments of sunlight and shade. May you never be worse off through life, as you go, Than when on W. M. wire we signed "O" and "Jo."

May the hinges of our Friendship never rust.

May your days in joy be passed With friends to bless and cheer, And each year exceed the last In all that earth holds dear.

THERE'S many a trouble

Would break like a bubble,

And into the waters of Lethe depart,

Did not we rehearse it

And tenderly nurse it,

And give it a permanent place in the heart.

Resolve to be merry,

All worry to ferry,

Across the famed waters that bid us forget.

And no longer fearful,

But happy and cheerful,

We feel life has much that's worth living for yet.

May we always remain as good friends as we are neighbors.

The night has a thousand eyes;—
The day but one;
Yet the light of the whole world dies
With the setting sun.

The mind has a thousand eyes—
The day but one;
Yet the light of the whole world dies
When love is done.

On this spotless page my pen essays to trace a record of affection; and, as I write, a wish is in my heart that, for thee, every life-leaf will be written with the golden pen of love.

Though many friends have signed their names,
And some have left their mark,
I see a place for me remains
To add my small remark.
My wish for thee is: joy through life;
And bliss supreme, when some one's wife.

I PRAY the prayer of Plato old:
God make thee beautiful within;
And let thine eye the good behold
In everything, save sin.

A FEW true friends to aid us and love us, And cordial hands to warmly clasp our own; O! surely God hath never made us To live distrustingly, selfish, and alone. A verse you ask this fine day: Of course I'll write you one. The task of writing finds its pay In joy that it is done.

Why ask a name; Small is the good it brings; Names are but breath— Deeds—deeds alone—are things.

When years and months have glided by, And on this page you cast your eye, Remember 'twas a friend sincere That left this kind remembrance here. With best wishes for your future cheer.

DEAR ----, may your life be blest With friendship, love and happiness; May all your friends prove true, And cheer you all the journey through.

May Future, with her kindest smile, Wreath laurels for thy brow; May loving angels guard and keep thee Ever pure as thou art now.

IF writing in Albums remembrance insures, With the greatest of pleasure I'll scribble in yours.

In after years when you recall
The days of pleasures past,
And think of joyous hours and all
Have flown away so fast,
When some forgotten air you hear
Brings back past scenes to thee,
And gently claims your listening ear
Keep one kind thought for me.

THE truest happiness is found in making others happy.

ACCEPT my friend these lines from me, They show that I remember thee, And hope some thought they will retain Till you and I shall meet again. 43

For thee, my fair and gentle friend, I ask not wealth or fame, I only ask thy path may be Free from life's toil and care.

Among the many friends that claim
A kind remembrance in thy breast,
I too would add my simple name.
Among the rest.

Never grow weary doing good.

I want a warm and faithful friend,
To cheer the adverse hour;
Who ne'er to flatter will descend,
Nor bend the knee to power;
A friend to chide me when I'm wrong;
My inmost soul to see;
And that my friendship prove as strong
For him as his for me.

>+ ESTEEM and CONFIDENCE. +<

Some little token of regard, You wish from me to claim; But as time is pressing hard, I will but write my name.

Every joy that heaven can send; Wealth, and every kind of treasure;— Health and love to thee, my friend, And happiness without measure.

In future years, should trusted friends
Depart like summer birds;
And all the comfort memory lends,
Is false and honeyed words,
Turn then to me who fain would prove,
However thy lot be cast,
That naught his heart can ever move
From friendship of the past.

May your path be strewn with roses, Fair and flowery to the end; And when your body in death reposes, May your Maker be your friend.

Well, ----, I surely would like to please; But can't think what to say. All your friends have wishes bright, To cheer your life so gay.

I will add: May all their words
Be symbols of love and truth;
That when you grow weary, and seek for rest,
You will rejoice in the friends of your youth.

To write in your Album, dear friend you ask; Ah, well! it is not such a difficult task. All I can say is contained here in one line: May the blessings of Heaven forever be thine.

Let not our friendship be like the rose, to sever; But, like the evergreen, may it last forever.

HE who does good to another, does also good to himself—not only in the act, but in the consciousness of well-doing is his reward.

In the evening of life, cherish the remembrance of one who loved thee in its morning.

Speak of me kindly when life's dreams are o'er; Speak of me gently when I am no more.

SAFELY down Life's ebbing tide, May our vessels smoothly glide, And anchor side by side—in heaven.

> THAT Hope and you, Bright days will view.

GUARD well thy thoughts; our thoughts are heard in heaven.

MAY He who hath pencilled the leaves with beauty, given the flowers their bloom, and lent music to the lay of the timid bird, graciously remember thee in that day when He shall gather His jewels.

From memory's leaves, I fondly squeeze Three little words— Forget Me Not.

A LONG life, and a happy one; A tall man, and a jolly one— Like—well—you know who!

The hills are shadows, and they flow From form to form, and nothing stands; They melt like mist, the solid lands, Like clouds they shape themselves and go.

But in my spirit will I dwell,
And dream my dream and hold it true;
For though my pen doth write adieu,
I cannot say for aye farewell.

47

God's love and peace be with thee, when Soe'r this soft Autumnal air Lifts the dark tresses of thy hair.

Thou lack'st not friendship's spellword, nor The half-unconscious power to draw All hearts to thine by Love's sweet law.

With such a prayer, on this sweet day, As thou mayest hear and I may say, I greet thee, dearest, far away.

This Album's a mansion which offers its best,

To the friends who have written their thoughts,
And the banquet is spread with festal fare,
Where guests mingle enjoyment with rest;
And they leave their memorials under thy roof,
Sometimes in sorrow, more oft in joy divine,
Nor think a single thought quite good enough,
To measure its faintest pulse with thine.

I wish thee every blessing That can attend thee here; And may each future birthday prove My wish to be sincere.

Your Birthday will always be green in the memory of your friends.

May these flowers, presented on your birthday, be emblematical of the purity of your life.

> WAKE early this morning, Nor miss the grey dawning; Take this greeting from me As it goes straight to thee: May joy and gladness e'er be thine; And endless brightness round thee shine.

This is thy Birthday, may it be, A source of happiness to thee, And may each Birthday yet in store, Be brighter than the one before.

DEAR friend, on this thy natal day, I send to thee a little lay,

And wishes tender

And only ask that thou'lt repay My thoughts with thine, and fondly say,

"I thank the sender."

May Spring its blossoms round thee strew, And Summer, deck'd in mantle new,

Come forth to greet thee;

May Autumn fruitage crown the year, And Winter, with its jovial cheer,

Bring friends to meet thee.

And if I still must absent be, Do not forget to send to me

One kind word only,

By home birds passing by the door,

Who, flying towards this distant shore,

May greet me lonely.

Like sunbeams to the drooping flowers,
Good-will our lives doth bless;
It furthers every wish of ours,
And joys in our success.
So may its rays towards you flow,
That none but friends your heart may know.

In these days of mirth and glee,
What shall my message be to thee?
What can I wish for one so blest?
Thou sunny bird in a sunny nest!
This I wish, and this I pray:
May the joys of life never pass away,
But only merge in a sigh of bliss—
Into a life far brighter than this!

If words could all my wishes say, Oh! how my tongue would talk away. I wish this day and many more Might on dear ---- blessings pour. May health, wealth, love, and peace With each succeeding year increase; And oh! the last, come when it may, Be unto thee a happy day.

On this Birthday morn arise
From thy placid slumber!
Soon to meet love's longing eyes
And greetings without number.
Heaven's dearest gifts be thine
To crown all earthly treasure,
For gifts that God gives unto thee
Know neither stint or measure.

As beauteous flowers in garlands intertwine, May Peace and Love to cheer thy heart combine, To give you a very happy Birthday.

> Love in every bosom live, And the truest pleasure give: And happy smiles each lip adorn, On this happy birthday morn.

LITTLE trouble and still less care, With ever a faithful heart to share; Birthdays many, and happy too, This is the life I wish for you. 51

Dear, happy birthdays, how fair ye seem,
Along the path of time:
Foot-prints whereon sweet-heart flowers blow,
By worldly storms unriven,
That we may mark them as they go,
And find our way to heaven.
Bright as a flower may thy Birthday be.

True love shall live thro' sorrow's wintry storm, And bloom afresh on this glad Birthday morn.

LOVINGLY take this birthday souvenir, And for my sake esteem it dear!

MAY the morning of thy birth break in gladness, and the day teem with light-hearted mirth that shall last always!

I DIP my pen into the ink, And grasp your album tight; But for my life I cannot think One single word to write.

In the storms of life,
When you need an umbrella,
May you have to uphold it
A handsome young fellow.

May beauty and truth, Keep you in youth; Green tea and sage, Preserve your old age.

Some people can be very funny; I never could be so. So I'll just inscribe my name; It's the funniest thing I know.

FEE SIMPLE and simple fee,
And all the fees entail
Are nothing when compared to thee—
Thou best of fees—fe-male.

What! write in your album, for critics to spy, For the learned to laugh at?—No, not I!

Accept my valued friendship, And roll it up in cotton, And think it not illusion, Because so easily gotten.

WITHSOEVER is this for why? Wherefore. Ain't it?

When I, poor elf, shall have vanished in vapor, May still my memory live—on paper.

ROUND went the book, and here it came, In it for me to write my name; I would write better, if I could, But nature said I never should.

If you wish to laugh; Glance at my autograph.

When on this page you chance to look, Think of me and close the book.

Sailing down the stream of life, In your little bark canoe, May you have a pleasant trip, With just room enough for two.

DEAR FRIEND:—

Do not doubt me;
You know more about me
Than many whose names
Here appear.
But to tell them I'll never—
What! never? Hardly ever—
What I'd like to write to you
Here.

'Tis nonsense I've written;
You'll think I am smitten
With charms that I hold
Very dear.
Please excuse me from writing,
More lines so inviting,
Your time to be spent
Idly here.

I CARE not much for gold or land,
Give me a mortgage here and there,
Some good bank stock—some note of hand,
Or trifling railroad share.
I only ask that Fortune send
A little more than I can spend.

Man's love is like Scotch snuff— You take a pinch and that's enough. Profit by this sage advice, When you fall in love, think twice. 55

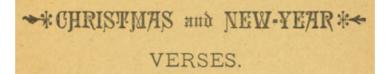

Long may you live, Happy may you be, When you get married Come and see me.

May you be happy, Each day of your life, Get a good husband And make a good wife.

As sure as comes your wedding day, A broom to you I'll send; In sunshine, use the brushy part, In storm, the other end.

> I write in your Album? How very absurd! My mind is at random—

May your cheeks retain their dimples, May your heart be just as gay, Until some manly voice shall whisper, "Dearest, will you name the day?"

Joy and plenty in the cottage,
Peace and feasting in the hall;
And the voices of the children
Ring out clear above it all:
A merry Christmas!

As Christmas offerings meet your eyes, Still closer be sweet friendship's ties.

Ring out, ye bells, o'er all the earth, To tell with brazen voice, The tidings of the Saviour's birth And bid mankind rejoice.

True love shall live thro' sorrow's wintry storm, And bloom afresh on this glad Christmas morn.

Oн joyous be your Christmas-tide, And bright your New Year, too; To you may love ne'er be denied; May all your friends be true.

Our Saviour Christ was born
That we might have the Rose without the thorn.
All through His desert life
He felt the thorns of human sin and strife.
His blessed feet were bare
To every hurting brier. He did not spare
One bleeding footstep on the way
He came to trace for us, until the day
The cruel crown was pressed upon the Brow
That smiles upon us from His glory now.

And so He won for us
Sweet, thornless, everlasting flowers thus.
He bids our desert way
Rejoice and blossom as the Rose to-day.
There is no hidden thorn
In His good gifts of grace. He would adorn
The lives that now are His alone,
With brightness and beauty all his own.
Then praise the Lord who came on Christmas day
To give the Rose and take the thorns away.

Again the festive season's here, With all that can delight and cheer; Oh! may you nothing lack each day, But find fresh blessings strew your way.

RING in, ring in the revelries,
And let the feast be one
Where not a single guest there is
But Innocence and Fun!
Let Christmas warmth keep winter out,
And joy unbroken reign—
From floor to roof-tree send the shout
Till Christmas comes again!

A LITTLE bird comes singing,
Singing a song to you;
He sings of sun-tipped flowers,
Bathed in a diamond dew.
"The days are coming," he warbles,
"When the frost has flown away,
When the earth will be sweet with flowers
And the breath of new-mown hay."

Oh bird so softly singing
Your song of pleasant days,
Go sing to her I fondly love,
Through the wintry cold and bare.
When the heart is light, the days are bright,
And the sun seems ever near;
So sing her your lay this Christmas Day,
And through all the bright New Year.

OH! may thy Christmas happy be, And naught but joy appear, Is now the wish I send to thee, And all I love most dear.

Now Christmas comes with hearty cheer May kindly thoughts go round, And bring to you a glad New Year, With peace and plenty crowned.

CHRISTMAS is coming, and what will it bring? Many a pleasant and gladdening thing! Meetings and greetings, and innocent mirth: All that is brightest and best on the earth.

Christmas comes, let every heart In Christmas customs bear its part: The "old" be "young," the sad be gay, And smiles chase every care away.

Sure, Christmas is a happy time
In spite of wintry weather,
For laugh, and song, and jest go round
When dear friends meet together:
And hearts are warm, and eyes beam bright.
In the ruddy glow of Christmas night!

For friends we strive to pierce
The future, dense and dark,
But not a ray of light
We see, nor faintest spark;
But yet while we have faith to cheer,
We trusting wish "A bright New Year."

HARK, the pearly air is trembling,
Liquid music floats along;
Angels, in sweet joy assembling,
Thrill the skies with heavenly song.
"Peace on Earth," is their refrain,
Oh, be it yours this peace to gain.

May piety with wishes placed above, And steady loyalty and faithful love, Be thy blessings this Christmas-tide. 60

O LIFE is but a river
And in our childhood we,
But a fair and running streamlet
Adorned with flowers, see.

But as we grow more earnest,
The river grows more deep,
And where we laughed in childhood,
We, older, pause to weep.

Each Christmas as it passes, Some change to us doth bring, Yet to our friends the closer, As time creeps on, we cling.

May health and joy, and peace be thine Upon this Christmas day, And happy faces round thee shine As plenteous as the flowers in May.

O BRIGHT be the day
Sweet echoes resounding,
Love lighting the way
And warm hearts surrounding.
May the breath of His peace
In thy spirit remain,
Till Christmas revisits
The round world again!

Let the New Tear be to you As a childish playmate new, Stealing suddenly among Apple-boughs that overhung.

Greet him half in confidence, Half as ready for defence! Is he come to tease or play? Will he give or take away?

Let him come as friend or foe! No New Year can overthrow This our friendship that has grown From the years that now are flown.

O CHILDHOOD is a golden time,
When all the world is bright,
When sunshine comes with every morn,
Sweet dreams with every night.
Were I a fairy, I would give
To thee a magic kiss,
That should ensure for the New Year,
As fair a time as this.

63

TAKE, my friend, this heartfelt greeting, Happy be thy Christmas day, Faith, and hope, and love here meeting, Speed thee on thy New Year's way!

I CANNOT tell what thou wilt bring to me,
O strange New Year,
But tho' thick darkness shrouds thy days and months
I will not fear.
Why should I fret my heart to know before
What may befall?
With this one thought content—I ask no more—
God knows it all.

Health and prosperity
Your life to cheer,
With every blessing
For the bright New Year.

On this New Year's morning
My wishes take their flight,
And wing to thee a greeting
That would make all things bright.

GLADLY now it is my pleasure, Joys to wish you, without measure, Happiness and peace attending, With pure heavenly blessings blending.

May the blessings of the old year follow in the new.

WE cannot look into the future,
We cannot tell if the New Year,
Will bring us fresh sorrows to mourn o'er,
Or bring us new blessings to cheer.

But an all-seeing God is above us,
Who knows-what for each one is best,
Who in this world will care for and love us,
And bring us at last to our rest.

A BAD BOY'S DIARY.

This is the most humorous book ever issued from the Press. The One Hundredth Thousand has just been issued, and the demand for it is still increasing. One editor says of it: "It made us laugh till our sides ached and the tears came." Another says: "It will drive the blues out of a bag of indigo. It is worth a dollar, but costs only ten cents." One reader says of it: "I received the Bad Boy's Diary you sent me, and as most of my family are killed by laughing over it, you may send another copy, so I can dispose of the rest of them in the same happy manner."

It contains 48 pages and is handsomely illustrated. Sent by mail on receipt of Ten Cents.

DIARY OF A MINISTER'S WIFE.

"It excels Mark Twain for genuine humor."

This is one of the most humourous books of the present day, showing in a manner pleasing to all readers the trials, tribulations, expectations, and actual experiences of a "minister's wife" in a country parish. The characters represented are true to life, and will doubtless bring to the mind of the reader remembrances of events and individuals within their own knowledge. It contains 64 pages, with handsome engraved cover. Price Ten Cents.

"A BUSHEL OF FUN,"

gathered from the writings of authors of "A Bad Boy's Diary." Josh Billings, Mark Twain, Detroit Free Press Man, Burlington Hawkeye Man, Max Adeler, and other funny men and women.

This is, indeed, a whole bushel of funny things, well shaken down, and running over with fun and good humor. It contains 64 pages, and is handsomely illustrated. Price Ten Cents.

The above books are for sale by Newsdealers and Booksellers. Either of them will be mailed on receipt of price by the Publishers.

To protect the Project Gutenberg™ mission of promoting the free distribution of electronic works, by using or distributing this work (or any other work associated in any way with the phrase "Project Gutenberg"), you agree to comply with all the terms of the Full Project Gutenberg™ License available with this file or online at www.gutenberg.org/license.

Section 1. General Terms of Use and Redistributing Project Gutenberg™ electronic works

1.A. By reading or using any part of this Project Gutenberg™ electronic work, you indicate that you have read, understand, agree to and accept all the terms of this license and intellectual property

(trademark/copyright) agreement. If you do not agree to abide by all the terms of this agreement, you must cease using and return or destroy all copies of Project Gutenberg™ electronic works in your possession. If you paid a fee for obtaining a copy of or access to a Project Gutenberg™ electronic work and you do not agree to be bound by the terms of this agreement, you may obtain a refund from the person or entity to whom you paid the fee as set forth in paragraph 1.E.8.

- 1.B. "Project Gutenberg" is a registered trademark. It may only be used on or associated in any way with an electronic work by people who agree to be bound by the terms of this agreement. There are a few things that you can do with most Project Gutenberg™ electronic works even without complying with the full terms of this agreement. See paragraph 1.C below. There are a lot of things you can do with Project Gutenberg™ electronic works if you follow the terms of this agreement and help preserve free future access to Project Gutenberg™ electronic works. See paragraph 1.E below.
- 1.C. The Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation ("the Foundation" or PGLAF), owns a compilation copyright in the collection of Project Gutenberg™ electronic works. Nearly all the individual works in the collection are in the public domain in the United States. If an individual work is unprotected by copyright law in the United States and you are located in the United States, we do not claim a right to prevent you from copying, distributing, performing, displaying or creating derivative works based on the work as long as all references to Project Gutenberg are removed. Of course, we hope that you will support the Project Gutenberg™ mission of promoting free access to electronic works by freely sharing Project Gutenberg™ works in compliance with the terms of this agreement for keeping the Project Gutenberg™ name associated with the work. You can easily comply with the terms of this agreement by keeping this work in the same format with its attached full Project Gutenberg™ License when you share it without charge with others.
- 1.D. The copyright laws of the place where you are located also govern what you can do with this work. Copyright laws in most countries are in a constant state of change. If you are not located in the United States, you will have to check the laws of the country where you are located before using this eBook.

- 1.E.2. If an individual Project Gutenberg™ electronic work is derived from texts not protected by U.S. copyright law (does not contain a notice indicating that it is posted with permission of the copyright holder), the work can be copied and distributed to anyone in the United States without paying any fees or charges. If you are redistributing or providing access to a work with the phrase "Project Gutenberg" associated with or appearing on the work, you must comply either with the requirements of paragraphs 1.E.1 through 1.E.7 or obtain permission for the use of the work and the Project Gutenberg™ trademark as set forth in paragraphs 1.E.8 or 1.E.9.
- 1.E.3. If an individual Project Gutenberg™ electronic work is posted with the permission of the copyright holder, your use and distribution must comply with both paragraphs 1.E.1 through 1.E.7 and any additional terms imposed by the copyright holder. Additional terms will be linked to the Project Gutenberg™ License for all works posted with the permission of the copyright holder found at the beginning of this work.
- 1.E.4. Do not unlink or detach or remove the full Project Gutenberg™ License terms from this work, or any files containing a part of this work or any other work associated with Project Gutenberg $^{\text{TM}}$ .

- 1.E.5. Do not copy, display, perform, distribute or redistribute this electronic work, or any part of this electronic work, without prominently displaying the sentence set forth in paragraph 1.E.1 with active links or immediate access to the full terms of the Project Gutenberg™ License.
- 1.E.6. You may convert to and distribute this work in any binary, compressed, marked up, nonproprietary or proprietary form, including any word processing or hypertext form. Any alternate format must include the full Project Gutenberg™ License as specified in paragraph 1.E.1.
- 1.E.7. Do not charge a fee for access to, viewing, displaying, performing, copying or distributing any Project Gutenberg™ works unless you comply with paragraph 1.E.8 or 1.E.9.
- 1.E.8. You may charge a reasonable fee for copies of or providing access to or distributing Project Gutenberg<sup>TM</sup> electronic works provided that:
- You pay a royalty fee of 20% of the gross profits you derive from the use of Project Gutenberg™ works calculated using the method you already use to calculate your applicable taxes. The fee is owed to the owner of the Project Gutenberg™ trademark, but he has agreed to donate royalties under this paragraph to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation. Royalty payments must be paid within 60 days following each date on which you prepare (or are legally required to prepare) your periodic tax returns. Royalty payments should be clearly marked as such and sent to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation at the address specified in Section 4, "Information about donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation."
- You provide a full refund of any money paid by a user who notifies you in writing (or by e-mail) within 30 days of receipt that s/he does not agree to the terms of the full Project Gutenberg™ License. You must require such a user to return or destroy all copies of the works possessed in a physical medium and discontinue all use of and all access to other copies of Project Gutenberg<sup>TM</sup> works.

- You provide, in accordance with paragraph 1.F.3, a full refund of any money paid for a work or a replacement copy, if a defect in the electronic work is discovered and reported to you within 90 days of receipt of the work.
- You comply with all other terms of this agreement for free distribution of Project Gutenberg<sup>TM</sup> works.

1.E.9. If you wish to charge a fee or distribute a Project Gutenberg<sup>TM</sup> electronic work or group of works on different terms than are set forth in this agreement, you must obtain permission in writing from the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, the manager of the Project Gutenberg<sup>TM</sup> trademark. Contact the Foundation as set forth in Section 3 below.

1.F.

1.F.1. Project Gutenberg volunteers and employees expend considerable effort to identify, do copyright research on, transcribe and proofread works not protected by U.S. copyright law in creating the Project Gutenberg™ collection. Despite these efforts, Project Gutenberg™ electronic works, and the medium on which they may be stored, may contain "Defects," such as, but not limited to, incomplete, inaccurate or corrupt data, transcription errors, a copyright or other intellectual property infringement, a defective or damaged disk or other medium, a computer virus, or computer codes that damage or cannot be read by your equipment.

1.F.2. LIMITED WARRANTY, DISCLAIMER OF DAMAGES - Except for the "Right of Replacement or Refund" described in paragraph 1.F.3, the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, the owner of the Project Gutenberg™ trademark, and any other party distributing a Project Gutenberg™ electronic work under this agreement, disclaim all liability to you for damages, costs and expenses, including legal fees. YOU AGREE THAT YOU HAVE NO REMEDIES FOR NEGLIGENCE, STRICT LIABILITY, BREACH OF WARRANTY OR BREACH OF CONTRACT EXCEPT THOSE PROVIDED IN PARAGRAPH 1.F.3. YOU AGREE THAT THE FOUNDATION, THE TRADEMARK OWNER, AND ANY DISTRIBUTOR UNDER THIS AGREEMENT

WILL NOT BE LIABLE TO YOU FOR ACTUAL, DIRECT, INDIRECT, CONSEQUENTIAL, PUNITIVE OR INCIDENTAL DAMAGES EVEN IF YOU GIVE NOTICE OF THE POSSIBILITY OF SUCH DAMAGE.

1.F.3. LIMITED RIGHT OF REPLACEMENT OR REFUND - If you discover a defect in this electronic work within 90 days of receiving it, you can receive a refund of the money (if any) you paid for it by sending a written explanation to the person you received the work from. If you received the work on a physical medium, you must return the medium with your written explanation. The person or entity that provided you with the defective work may elect to provide a replacement copy in lieu of a refund. If you received the work electronically, the person or entity providing it to you may choose to give you a second opportunity to receive the work electronically in lieu of a refund. If the second copy is also defective, you may demand a refund in writing without further opportunities to fix the problem.

1.F.4. Except for the limited right of replacement or refund set forth in paragraph 1.F.3, this work is provided to you 'AS-IS', WITH NO OTHER WARRANTIES OF ANY KIND, EXPRESS OR IMPLIED, INCLUDING BUT NOT LIMITED TO WARRANTIES OF MERCHANTABILITY OR FITNESS FOR ANY PURPOSE.

1.F.5. Some states do not allow disclaimers of certain implied warranties or the exclusion or limitation of certain types of damages. If any disclaimer or limitation set forth in this agreement violates the law of the state applicable to this agreement, the agreement shall be interpreted to make the maximum disclaimer or limitation permitted by the applicable state law. The invalidity or unenforceability of any provision of this agreement shall not void the remaining provisions.

1.F.6. INDEMNITY - You agree to indemnify and hold the Foundation, the trademark owner, any agent or employee of the Foundation, anyone providing copies of Project Gutenberg™ electronic works in accordance with this agreement, and any volunteers associated with the production, promotion and distribution of Project Gutenberg™ electronic works, harmless from all liability, costs and expenses, including legal fees, that arise directly or indirectly from any of the following which you do or cause to occur: (a) distribution of this or any Project Gutenberg™ work, (b) alteration, modification, or additions or deletions to any Project Gutenberg™ work, and (c) any Defect you cause.

Section 2. Information about the Mission of Project Gutenberg<sup>TM</sup>

Project Gutenberg™ is synonymous with the free distribution of electronic works in formats readable by the widest variety of computers including obsolete, old, middle-aged and new computers. It exists because of the efforts of hundreds of volunteers and donations from people in all walks of life.

Volunteers and financial support to provide volunteers with the assistance they need are critical to reaching Project Gutenberg<sup>TM</sup> 's goals and ensuring that the Project Gutenberg<sup>TM</sup> collection will remain freely available for generations to come. In 2001, the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation was created to provide a secure and permanent future for Project Gutenberg<sup>TM</sup> and future generations. To learn more about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation and how your efforts and donations can help, see Sections 3 and 4 and the Foundation information page at www.gutenberg.org.

Section 3. Information about the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

The Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation is a non-profit 501(c)(3) educational corporation organized under the laws of the state of Mississippi and granted tax exempt status by the Internal Revenue Service. The Foundation's EIN or federal tax identification number is 64-6221541. Contributions to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation are tax deductible to the full extent permitted by U.S. federal laws and your state's laws.

The Foundation's business office is located at 809 North 1500 West, Salt Lake City, UT 84116, (801) 596-1887. Email contact links and up to date contact information can be found at the Foundation's website and official page at www.gutenberg.org/contact

Section 4. Information about Donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation

Project Gutenberg™ depends upon and cannot survive without widespread public support and donations to carry out its mission of increasing the number of public domain and licensed works that can be freely distributed in machine-readable form accessible by the widest array of equipment including outdated equipment. Many small donations ($1 to $5,000) are particularly important to maintaining tax exempt status with the IRS.

The Foundation is committed to complying with the laws regulating charities and charitable donations in all 50 states of the United States. Compliance requirements are not uniform and it takes a considerable effort, much paperwork and many fees to meet and keep up with these requirements. We do not solicit donations in locations where we have not received written confirmation of compliance. To SEND DONATIONS or determine the status of compliance for any particular state visit www.gutenberg.org/donate.

While we cannot and do not solicit contributions from states where we have not met the solicitation requirements, we know of no prohibition against accepting unsolicited donations from donors in such states who approach us with offers to donate.

International donations are gratefully accepted, but we cannot make any statements concerning tax treatment of donations received from outside the United States. U.S. laws alone swamp our small staff.

Please check the Project Gutenberg web pages for current donation methods and addresses. Donations are accepted in a number of other ways including checks, online payments and credit card donations. To donate, please visit: www.gutenberg.org/donate.

Section 5. General Information About Project Gutenberg™ electronic works

Professor Michael S. Hart was the originator of the Project Gutenberg™ concept of a library of electronic works that could be freely shared with anyone. For forty years, he produced and distributed Project Gutenberg™ eBooks with only a loose network of volunteer support.

Project Gutenberg™ eBooks are often created from several printed editions, all of which are confirmed as not protected by copyright in the U.S. unless a copyright notice is included. Thus, we do not necessarily keep eBooks in compliance with any particular paper edition.

Most people start at our website which has the main PG search facility: www.gutenberg.org.

This website includes information about Project Gutenberg™, including how to make donations to the Project Gutenberg Literary Archive Foundation, how to help produce our new eBooks, and how to subscribe to our email newsletter to hear about new eBooks.
